

Anger over residential home plan

Residents protest at town council meeting

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

PARENTS are outraged over plans for a private residential children's home in their Haverhill street.

Spartan Close residents expressed shock at Tuesday night's town council meeting that the plans were even being discussed.

Shalamar Children Limited runs one other care home in Essex that was rated inadequate by Ofsted in July 2016.

Have your say at cambridge-news.co.uk/all-about/haverhill

Issues included a child starting a fire in his bedroom, one arrest of a child for assault in the home, the house being left in a poor condition as well as instances of understaffing, a lack of experienced staff and a high staff turnover, all of which were raised by residents at the meeting.

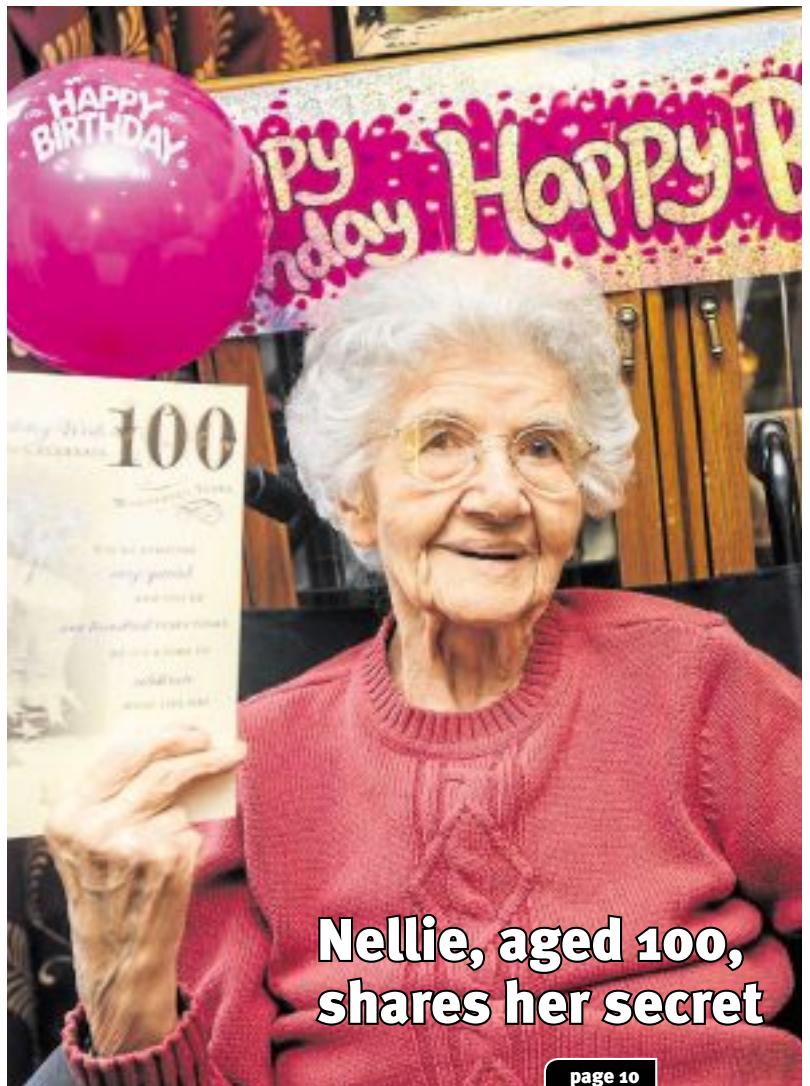

Shalamar says its home would provide care for only one or two children who could not be housed with other children.

In its planning statement Shalamar said this was because the children have generally suffered trauma and cannot cope living with other children.

Nine out of the 12 houses on the street have children and parents were worried that the young people at the residential home and their visitors would present a danger.

Drugs op at jail ends with arrest

COMBINED ACTION: Alleged smuggling was targeted at Highpoint Prison

A MAN has been arrested following a police operation targeting the alleged smuggling of illicit items into Highpoint Prison.

Suffolk police worked alongside the Eastern Region Special Operations Unit (ER-SOU), HMP Highpoint and the Special Constabulary in a joint operation at the prison, in Stradishall, on January 20.

A suspected psychoactive substance and some cannabis were seized after a search with a specialist drugs sniffer dog.

Suffolk police say a 37-year-old man, from Wembley, London, was arrested on suspicion of conveying prohibited items into prison.

He was questioned at Bury St Edmunds Police Investigation Centre and bailed until March 10 pending further enquiries.

Another 22-year-old man from east London was also interviewed by officers and has been reported for consideration of possession of cannabis.

TOM PILGRIM

Two further people have been banned from entering the prison following the operation.

Inspector Danny Cooper, local policing commander for Haverhill, said: "This was a great piece of joint working between our officers, ERSOU and prison staff and I want to make a particular mention to the role played by the volunteers from the Special Constabulary. They are a dedicated team who have had specialist search training and regularly give-up their own time to assist us with numerous warrants and operations."

"We will continue to conduct random visitor checks at the prison and hope that these will act as a warning to those thinking of trying to bring illegal items in that it will not be tolerated."

Garry Newnes, head of security and intelligence at HMP Highpoint, added: "The smuggling of illicit items into the establishment poses a significant risk to the safety of those in our care and we will take every reasonable step to prevent this from happening."

"Visits are provided to maintain positive family contact and aid rehabilitation and should not be used as a conduit for illegal activity. We will continue to work with our colleagues from Suffolk police to deal robustly with anyone attempting to traffic into the establishment."

STAGGERING AMOUNT: Some of the walkers celebrate raising £250,000

Walkers raise record sum for hospice

THOUSANDS of women helped raise a record-breaking sum for a local charity last year.

The women raised £250,000 by walking in Bury St Edmunds for St Nicholas Hospice Care, wearing pyjamas and flashing bunny ears. The event, named Girls Night Out 2016, saw walkers take on either 11.2 or six miles.

Jenny Smith, hospice events and challenges fundraising officer, said: "Girls Night Out 2016 was a fantastic event. To see what I can only describe as a sea of pink flashing bunny ears filling Angel Hill is truly a sight I will never forget.

"When we first started Girls Night Out eight years ago some 350 women took part. This year more women than ever before – 2,104 – donned their pyjamas for our hospice and between them they raised a staggering amount.

"I would like to thank each and every one of them, as well as everyone behind the scenes.

St Nicholas Hospice Care, which runs the Burton Centre in Haverhill, looks after people with long-term or life-threatening illnesses.

COURT

Church rector denies fraud

A HAVERHILL clergyman blamed chaotic record keeping and incompetence when challenged about £12,000 of missing money from his church, Ipswich crown court has been told.

Ian Finn, who worked as parish rector at St Mary The Virgin Church in Haverhill told the Diocesan Board of Finance that he had failed to pay enough attention to financial matters.

In addition to his Haverhill parish, Finn is also Rural Dean of Clare and an honorary dean at St Edmundsbury Cathedral.

Finn, 55, of Hopton Rise, Haverhill, is on trial at Ipswich Crown Court where he has pleaded not guilty to an offence of fraud by abuse of position between June 2007 and March 2014.

It is alleged that Finn gained £12,707, prosecutor Charles Myatt told the jury on Tuesday.

The court was told that initial concerns had been raised by the parish treasurer about Finn's record keeping in January 2014 which resulted in Finn being invited to an informal meeting with Archdeacon David Jenkins a month later.

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

During the meeting, Finn was asked if he wished to say anything and told Archdeacon Jenkins that he did not know and would need to return home to check.

Mr Myatt said the next day Finn produced a two-page document in which he had listed what he claimed were errors he had made during the previous seven years and which amounted, by Finn's reckoning, to involve about £18,000.

The jury heard that Finn's duties at St Mary The Virgin Church had included responsibility to collect fees for wedding, funeral and cremation services and for reading out wedding banns.

That money should have been paid to the Diocesan Board of Finance, the church organist and the Parochial Church Council, said Mr Myatt.

When questioned by Suffolk police, Finn had claimed that the missing church fees were a matter of incompetence on his part rather than dishonesty.

Finn told detectives that he had made simple accounting mistakes and blamed the situation on "chaotic record keeping and poor and inadequate accounting skills".

The trial which is expected to conclude next week continues.

PLANNING

Flats plan for derelict pub is approved

PLANS to turn the derelict Vixen pub into flats have been passed by Haverhill Town Council.

The current plans will see the pub in Strasbourg Square changed into 18 flats and two retail or office spaces.

The decision was made on Tuesday night at a meeting of the town council planning committee.

Some concern was raised by the public health and housing department that six of the flats are too small.

It was also announced that the applicants, Radford Interiors, have decided that the two commercial units will not be the same as any other shop currently on the Clements estate.

Cllr Jason Crooks said: "Putting two shops in will really make the square absolutely great."

There were worries that other shops and the community centre might lose out on parking but at the meeting on Tuesday, Cllr John Burns said the number of car parking spaces would actually be doubled if the plans are approved by Bury St Edmunds Borough Council.

The plans were passed by a unanimous vote by planning committee members.

FARMING

Safety fears raised over increase in wild boars

RACHAEL McMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

CHILD safety concerns are growing after a decision to more than double the number of wild boar being kept at a farm.

Residents surrounding the farm at Pitt Wood on the Suffolk/Essex border near Haverhill are worried the animals may put children and family pets at risk.

Braintree District Council approved an application from owner James Bolton for an additional 131 wild boar at a meeting of the licensing committee.

Wild boar are classed as dangerous animals under the Dangerous Wild Animal Act so must be licensed.

A residents' action group criticised the council's decision and accused it of ignoring local concerns.

They said: "These wild boar pose a serious risk in particular to small children and dogs."

"Wild boar are territorial animals. Other than the keeper feeding them, they will attack anything

CONCERNS: Wild boar are classed as dangerous animals entering their territory. Children climbing over the boar fencing are in danger.

"If they escaped, how long would it take them to run into Sturmer or Haverhill?"

The farm already has 55 boar on site which are reared for commercial meat supply to restaurants.

However, a vet was previously sent by the council to examine security at the site and reported they had no concerns about the additional boar and recommended the licence be approved.

Other concerns raised included disease, rat infestations, noise and the proximity to walking and cycling routes.

The animals can also not be sent to slaughter houses so have to be shot on site.

Mr Bolton was unavailable for comment.

Job centre set for new home

MOVING: Haverhill Job Centre will be relocating to Haverhill House

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

HAVERHILL. Job Centre is set to move as a result of a new government restructuring.

The current High Street centre is one of 50 job centres across the UK that will move into local council-owned buildings.

A spokesperson for the Department of Work and Pensions said: "The relocation to local government premises will provide a full service under one roof."

"It's easier for claimants, everything they need will be there."

The new job centre will be located at Haverhill House, Lower Downs Slade, less than half a mile away from the current offices.

No redundancies are planned for the nine staff.

Haverhill's MP Matthew Hancock said: "This relocation of the Haverhill Job Centre to the new site, which is less than a mile from its current location, is a very sensible decision in the DWP's plan to deliver value for money and improved services."

"It is also very good news that there will be no planned redundancies as part of the move."

One-day-a-week charity REACH also works in the job centre as part of its poverty alleviation programme.

It is not yet clear whether there will be space at the new centre for that partnership to continue.

The job centre move isn't likely to happen until the beginning of 2018.

Most of the DWP's offices are on a 20-year contract with property firm Teler-eal Trillium which expires in March 2018, leading to the move.

Another 78 smaller job centres across the country will merge offices and staff as part of the move.

COUNCIL

Cllr Jason Crooks proposed an extension in the consultation period instead of voting for an objection but those residents who went to the meeting said no consultation was needed.

Barry Finch, who lives on the street, said: "The company is not capable of looking after one home let alone two."

Residents also said that the consultation process was inadequate.

Only three properties, the one's adjoining 6 Spartan Close were told personally and according to residents only one notice was placed on a lamppost, two days before the meeting was due to take place.

Other concerns included parking and access, especially for emergency services given the history of the other home in Essex.

The town council objected to the proposal and a decision will be made by St Edmundsbury Borough Council at a later date.

Mental health affects young

CHILDHOOD should be a special time, packed full of happy memories. But for too many youngsters it is a struggle, as they battle with emotional and mental health illnesses, and do not get the support they so desperately need.

Barnardo's is extremely concerned about the scale of the problem in the UK. Three children in every classroom are suffering from a diagnosable mental health problem. This can lead to young people being disruptive, difficult, withdrawn and disturbed, and it's vital they are supported and not just ignored or told off.

It was very welcome to recently hear Theresa May pledging to tackle the issue – and ensure it is as high a priority for the Government as physical health problems.

We want to see a dual approach combining early intervention and prevention, and quicker access to Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services (CAHMS).

Supporting vulnerable children is at the heart of Barnardo's work. In primary schools we offer two programmes, one for the younger children and then another for older ones as they prepare to start secondary school. The sooner the problems are picked up, the sooner they can be treated.

Jonathan Whalley

Barnardo's South East and Anglia Regional Director

Drug can extend life

IT is devastating to hear that Kadcylla – a crucial life-extending treatment for women with incurable secondary breast cancer – faces being withdrawn from the NHS, following the failure of NICE and the drug's manufacturer, Roche, to reach an agreement.

Kadcylla can offer patients precious extra months – even years – of good quality time with their loved ones, with fewer side effects than other treatments. It is available in many other countries – including France, Germany and Australia – and unless NICE's draft decision is overturned next month, this fantastic medical advance will bypass patients in England forever.

That's why I've backed Breast Cancer Now's campaign to #KeepKadcylla, which calls on NICE and Roche to urgently reach a deal to ensure patients in England are not denied this very effective treatment.

There is very little time left for this decision to be reversed and I urge NICE and Roche to do everything in their power to keep this drug available.

Margaret Johnson
Plumian Way
Balsham

I'VE been Haverhill's MP for six years now, and I'm delighted that the Haverhill News have asked me to write a regular column.

It is an honour and privilege to represent the people of Haverhill as your Member of Parliament. Haverhill is very much a town on the up – a town with rising rates of employment, the opening of several new high profile businesses in the town as well as the opening of the Haverhill Business Park extension scheduled for later this year.

Perhaps more than this, is the attitude: open and welcoming to improvements, with school, business and civic leaders championing Haverhill as a fantastic place to do business and to attract new investment into the area.

Another aspect of Haverhill to shout about is the state of education. Thanks to lots of hard work by teachers and staff, and strong leadership, there is very high quality primary education in Haverhill and the town's secondary schools are extremely good and improving all the time. With my frequent visits

In a new column for Haverhill News, West Suffolk MP and Minister for Digital & Culture, Matthew Hancock, highlights the strengths which make the town an exciting, vibrant place to live and work to the schools in Haverhill, I am consistently struck by the enthusiasm and energy of the staff and the pupils, and will do all I can to support them.

Of course for all the good things that are happening in Haverhill, like any other the town also has its challenges, and we must keep pushing and working hard to address them.

There is no doubt that Haverhill needs more good quality homes. And with more housing we will also need more health services to cope with an increasing population. I know that GP and health provision is a challenge in Haverhill and I am working with the authorities locally to address it.

An area of serious concern is the A1307. Very sadly, this congested, dangerous road has been in the news recently with the reporting of accidents and fatalities. Last month I met with the Roads Minister John Hayes to make the case for both short term safety measures, and a long term solution that also sorts out the traffic problem. Local partners are working together in the A1307 Strategy Board which I chair alongside the Suffolk Chamber of Commerce in Haverhill to try to get more improvements.

But despite its challenges, Haverhill is an exciting, vibrant place to live and to work. It has so much going for it that it is no surprise that it is the fastest growing town in West Suffolk.

Pupils help animal charity

NEW CANGLE community primary school in Haverhill has raised more than £200 for Wood Green Animal Shelters. The school raised the money through Christmas projects, including a pantomime and a stall.

The Wood Green charity shop in Haverhill displayed artwork Years One and Two completed last term when they studied the value of pets and wildlife.

Teacher Nik Hedges and six pupils handed over the cheque for £241.35 on Tuesday at the Wood Green Charity shop.

TRANSPORT

Commuters might get new park and ride site

JOSH THOMAS
@JoshThomasCN

A NEW park and ride site is under consideration to help commuters from Haverhill and Linton gain easier access to Cambridge.

A new site to the south of the city is on the cards, with councillors now looking to negotiate with Stagecoach to ensure buses can serve the area.

Cllr Ian Bates, who chairs Cambridgeshire County Council's environment and economy committee, said: "We have an issue that we need more park and ride sites. A lot of people come in from Haverhill and Linton, some of them come to work at Addenbrooke's. It needs to be easier for them to get around.

"We have not isolated a site for the park and ride yet, but lots of people have said it would be a good thing."

The news comes as it is revealed Cambridgeshire County Council is looking to scrap the £1 park and ride charge that appears to be putting many off using the service. The intention is for money raised from an incoming workplace parking levy in

COMMITTED: Cllr Ian Bates will be speaking to bus company Stagecoach

WORRY: Paul Donno is concerned a new site will increase A1307 traffic

the city to be used to subsidise the charge and contribute towards reducing bus fares.

Cllr Bates said he would be spending the coming year speaking to the bus company Stagecoach to see whether they would be able to provide the buses to service a new park and ride.

"People from Haverhill or other towns and villages won't have to pay to park, and bus fares will be cheaper," said Cllr Bates. "I can't promise all this will happen straight away, but I am committed to working on it this year.

"Is it right for people from Haverhill to be able to come in to Cambridge? The answer is yes. It will be the right thing for people in the city and further away."

Paul Donno, chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the park and ride plan for easing congestion into Cambridge but raised concerns about the impact on the A1307.

He said: "This reinforces the need for the A1307 to be improved. More and more workers will be going into the city, so that increases the traffic [on A1307]. The road is currently not fit for purpose."

Mr Donno also said there were plenty of opportunities for businesses to invest in Haverhill, such as the research park, which would save the need for commuting.

DONNELLY Janet

Beloved Wife

13th May 1940 - 2nd February 2016

God looked around his garden and found an empty place; He then looked down upon the earth and saw your tired face.

He put His arms around you and lifted you to rest; God's garden must be beautiful, He only takes the best.

He saw the road was getting rough and the hills were hard to climb; So He closed your weary eyelids and whispered "Peace be thine."

It broke my heart to lose you but you did not go alone; For part of me went with you, the day God called you home.

Always in my thoughts forever in my heart

COMMUNITY

Centenarian Nellie shares her top secret to long life

CELEBRATING: Nellie Binks who turned 100 on Wednesday with her grandchildren David and Marion

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

CUT out carbs, stop drinking, reduce your stress.

These are all things purported as ways to lead a long and healthy life.

But for Nellie Binks, who turned 100 yesterday, her secret to a long life is much simpler.

Work hard every day, have a glass of sherry every night and in your youth add a glass of barley wine too.

Nellie was born in Helions Bumpstead and has lived in Haverhill ever since she left school.

Over the last century she has worked in a variety of different positions across the town.

After leaving school at 13 she spent six years as a domestic servant for a doctor.

She also worked at a packing company and brush factory.

In her 100 years Nellie has also raised one son, Tony Binks, 75. She has three grandchildren: Marion, 53, David, 50, and Peter, 48.

She is also a great grandmother twice over to Peter's children, William, 12, and Thomas, 3.

Nellie's son Tony says his mum is in good health apart from becoming a little hard of hearing.

He said: "All parts are still working, she's got a little bit hard of hearing but, as she will say, 'what do you expect when you're 100?'"

Before she had a fall a few months ago, Nellie was still living alone and looking after herself.

To celebrate the milestone birthday Nellie's family threw her a small party attended by some of her friends as well.

SIGNING UP: John Mayhew, Paul Donno and Lesley Whiting with Matthew Hancock adding their names to the petition

MP and business leaders sign petition

A PETITION to improve safety on the A1307 has received more than a 1,000 signatures since it started in January.

The petition, started three weeks ago, follows the fatal accident on January 9 which killed Reginald Towers, 75, and Maria Towers, 71, of Palmers Close, Linton.

Business leaders and West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock this week signed the petition in support of road improvements. Mr Hancock said: "I wholeheartedly agree with this petition, as do several leading business figures in the Haverhill area. The A1307 is a truly dangerous road and the sooner that action is taken to improve the safety of it, the better. Last month I met with Roads Minister John Hayes about this issue and we are awaiting the report on traffic flows as commissioned by the A1307 Action Group. I will keep campaigning for safety improvements to the A1307 – this petition is hugely helpful in raising awareness for the need for change to the road."

Chairman of the Haverhill Chamber of Commerce Paul Donno, chairman of One Haverhill, John Mayhew, and Haverhill-based 1st stop recruitment's Lesley Whiting have all now signed the petition.

FUNDRAISING

Volunteers help raise £23,000 in mountain trek

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

TWO workers at Haverhill B&Q have just returned from Tanzania where they took part in a trek up Mount Kilimanjaro to raise money for a zoological society.

Dave Farmer and Julie Davies headed out to Tanzania to raise funds for the Zoological Society of East Anglia (ZSEA) with 11 others.

The charity supports Banham Zoo in Norfolk and wildlife park Africa Alive! in Kessingland, Suffolk.

Both work to promote conservation and animal welfare.

The rigorous conditions and poor health prevented Dave and Julie from reaching the summit.

Dave, from Newmarket, was brought down on day two after falling ill and suffering from dehydration.

Julie, from Linton, made it 4,500 metres up the mountain, the fourth largest in the world, but on day five succumbed to a chest infection and had to be brought back down.

Once back on flat ground Dave was shown around all the local villages and while he is disappointed about not making it to the top he said the experience was still life changing.

He said: "It was massively inspirational. For me it was something of a catalyst. It opened my eyes about wanting to see more of the world."

"I was fit but not as fit as I wanted to be."

Dave hopes that he can continue to fundraise for the charity and along with other members of the group is considering new challenges, including cycling in Vietnam.

As for Kilimanjaro, Dave says he would love to go back and finish the climb.

He said: "It's become a bucket list-type thing now. I want to go back and finish it."

As well as raising £23,000 the group also donated some of their kit to the sherpas who helped them get to the top.

EDUCATION

Academy trust appoints deputy chief executives

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

TWO deputy chief executives have been appointed to the Samuel Ward Academy Trust, based in Haverhill.

Chief executive Howard Lay announced in November that he planned to step down from the trust and is now working part-time during the transition while a search for a successor continues.

Speaking in November, Mr Lay said: "I am very proud of playing my part in both the Samuel Ward Academy and the trust which has built a strong reputation across West Suffolk."

"I now feel the time is right to start to step aside and introduce some fresh blood into the role of chief executive."

Mr Lay has been chief executive since the trust formed in 2012. It now manages 15 schools across West Suffolk.

The new deputies are Mark Neild and Wayne Lloyd.

Mr Neild is director of education

SUPPORT: Mark Neild will work as a deputy chief executive while a replacement for Mr Lay is found.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE: Howard Lay announced his decision to step down in November.

SUPPORT: Wayne Lloyd will work at the trust on an interim basis to give support (secondary) at the trust and Mr Lloyd is the head teacher at Thomas Gainsborough School in Great Cornard, near Sudbury.

Jon Ward, vice-chairman of the Samuel Ward Academy Trust board, said: "We are delighted to have the support of experienced educational leaders to support the trust.

"It will provide an effective way of developing additional leadership capacity and a coherent and orderly transition."

Both the new deputies will work with the trust on an interim basis while they continue with their other full-time positions.

FUNDRAISER

Hospice calls on cyclist to sign up for charity ride

ST NICHOLAS Hospice in Bury St Edmunds has issued a plea for volunteers to take part in a 60-mile charity bike ride.

This will be the third year the ride, called The Edge, will have taken place.

Charlie De-Moore, hospice events and challenges fundraiser, said: "The Edge really is a fantastic event."

"Yes it is challenging, but it is also a lot of fun as riders will get to follow the 60-mile route around the beautiful Suffolk countryside."

The challenge starts and finishes at Bury Rugby Club in Bury St Edmunds on Sunday, June 25.

Riders have to pay a £20 entry fee but don't have to be sponsored unless they want to raise some extra cash for the hospice.

The hospice looks after people with long term or life threatening illnesses.

If you would like a sponsorship form or want to enter the event contact Charlie by email at charlie.de-moore@stnh.org.uk or telephone (01284) 715599.

Silver Dipped Natural Rose

£119.00, eternityrose.co.uk

A stunning solution to that problem is the silver dipped natural rose, which is rafted from a genuine rose, clipped at the height of its splendour, and dipped in purest silver. Clocking in at almost one foot in length and coming in a navy-blue velvet display case, each rose is a striking work of art – an ideal gift for an ideal partner.

HAVERHILL Arts Centre's first event this month is a live broadcast from the National Theatre that has a strapline of 'Music. Power. Jealousy.'

'No, it's not chronicling a spat between Simon Cowell and Louis Walsh but that 18th Century rivalry between Mozart and Salieri.

When Wolfgang Amadeus, a rowdy young prodigy arrives in Vienna, Salieri, the court composer, is torn between admiration for the upstart genius and a more base desire to pulverise him out of existence.

Lucien Msamati plays the potential pulveriser tonight at 7pm.

If you are a fan of Kate Bush and you missed out on her recent shows then this next event is for you. Cloudbusting is the UK's longest-running and most applauded Kate Bush tribute.

Mandy Watson as the voice of Kate encompasses her range with accuracy but not caricature. Sit back and absorb such favourites as Wuthering Heights, Babooshka and This Woman's Work tomorrow.

Brass United, on Sunday at 7.30pm is a household of three with Haverhill Youth and Community Band, Hadstock Silver Band and Tube – the brass quintet with a difference. The bands will play separately and then come together for a rousing finale.

Saturday, February 11, sees the return of the table top sale, it's like a car-boot but with less frost-bite. Go along for 10am to grab the bargains. Later on that Saturday the arts centre has another welcome return visit, this time from Uncle Funk and the Boogie Wonderband. No prizes for guessing the music genre here; yes, mainlined from the 70s, it is a groovy night of funk and disco hits. Party time is 8pm. Wear fancy dress, if you fancy, the band certainly will.

Films for the coming week include Nocturnal Animals (15) on Monday, February 6. Out of the blue, art gallery owner Susan receives the manuscript of a novel by her ex-husband Edward. As she starts to read, the story springs to life on screen and a multi-layered story unfolds in different time frames. It's ex-Gucci man, Tom Ford's follow up film to A Single Man so expect Style with a capital

In A United Kingdom on Wednesday, February 8, a white English woman, played by Rosamund Pike in 1948 marries a young African Prince, David Oyelowo. They may be madly in love but that won't stop them falling foul of the establishment, in a rather big way.

Half term shows to entertain the kids are Black Magic – The Little Mix Show, almost sold out and Rapunzel and the Tower of Doom, a hair-raising riff on a tangled old tale.

FILM REVIEWS

With Damon Smith

Psychotic Begbie drives much of the film's action

SPOT THE DIFFERENCE

Trainspotting sequel finds Renton and co struggling to adapt to middle age

THERE'S a tremendous trepidation in returning to the Edinburgh underworld of Trainspotting 20 years after the intoxicating original.

How could this long-fermenting sequel compete with the defining film of the Britpop era? It offered a startlingly stark vision of modern Scotland, a famously ferocious soundtrack and career highs from the actors. I shouldn't have worried.

Having allowed the material to seethe and stew, director Danny Boyle cooks up another tremendous cocktail of drug-taking, violence and prostitution.

For all the drugs consumed on screen, the strength of the chemistry between the actors is what makes this such an addictive hit of pure cinema.

Ewan McGregor,

Spud is trying to kick his habit

T2 TRAINSPOTTING (18)

Ewan Bremner, Jonny Lee Miller and Robert Carlyle are older, heavier, sadder but no wiser, as Renton, Spud, Sick Boy and Begbie. The one-time youthful hedonists are now living in less than comfortable middle age. All the actors bring a maturity to their work, giving the characters a beaten, weary melancholy.

Noticeably missing from the advertising posters is Renton's old squeeze, Diane. And her appearance in the film played by Kelly Macdonald, is sadly all too brief.

After a long absence, Renton returns to Edinburgh. In the meantime he has been living off the cash he robbed from his pals in the first movie.

Sweet-natured Spud is once again trying to go clean. Sick Boy considers Renton a rival. Begbie remains as psychotic as ever and provides much of the momentum for the chaos which ensues.

Using Irvine Welsh's novel Porno as a starting point and filming in his typically high energy style, Boyle has created an abrasive tale of loyalty and friendship. T2 understands it won't capture the youthful zeitgeist in the same way Trainspotting did in 1996.

It drowns in large shots of nostalgia, regret and wasted lives. The sharp and funny script chooses to honour the characters by allowing them to mature disgracefully, while still being sympathetic towards them.

Take a deep breath. Choose cinema. Choose first class. Choose Trainspotting 2.

Review by Chris Hunneysett

Andrew Garfield

girlfriend, Dorothy Schutte (Teresa Palmer), and serve as a medic but is ushered into combat training under Sergeant Howell (Vince Vaughn) and instantly makes enemies of his squad.

He's arrested for insubordination and he faces a trial behind closed doors overseen by Captain Glover (Sam Worthington) and Captain Stelzer (Richard Roxburgh).

Hack Saw Ridge pulls no punches in its depiction of the horrors of war. Garfield delivers a mesmerizing lead performance, as a gentle and caring man who yearns to serve the country he loves, but isn't willing to abandon his moral compass to do so.

HACKSAW RIDGE (15)

DIRECTOR Mel Gibson returns, all guns blazing, with a riveting wartime drama based on the true story of Desmond Doss, who served with valour during the Second World War without firing a single bullet.

He was the first conscientious objector to receive America's highest military award, the Medal of Honor.

Gibson directs with verve, orchestrating hellish battle scenes.

Desmond (Andrew Garfield) is raised with his brother Hal (Nathaniel Buzolic) in Lynchburg, Virginia.

His father Tom (Hugo Weaving) is an emotionally scarred WWI veteran and mother Bertha (Rachel Griffiths) strongly religious.

After enrolling in the US Army Desmond intends to follow the lead of his nurse

ALSO SHOWING

DENIAL (12A)

THE timing of director Mick Jackson's drama, based on a real-life courtroom battle between two historians with radically different views of the Holocaust, is uncanny in this age of "alternative facts". A high-profile libel lawsuit between Holocaust denier David Irving and Penguin Books Ltd, representing American author Deborah Lipstadt, took more than three years to resolve before a final ruling in April 2000.

Lipstadt (Rachel Weisz) holds the chair in Jewish And Holocaust Studies at Emory University.

She receives a call from Anthony Forbes-Watson (Pip Carter), managing director of Penguin Books.

Irving (Timothy Spall) intends to file a lawsuit in London because the company has refused to withdraw her book, Denying The Holocaust: The Growing Assault On Truth And Memory, which repeatedly mentions Irving and which he claims is robbing him "of his reputation as a professional historian", setting up a legal confrontation with deep implications.

Denial provides an accessible route into complex legal arguments, anchored by strong performances from Weisz and Spall on opposite sides of the heated debate.

SING (U)

CREATURES great and small pursue glittering dreams of musical stardom in Garth Jennings and Christophe Lourdelet's colourful comedy.

Lovingly composed by Illumination Entertainment, the animation studio responsible for Despicable Me, Minions and The Secret Life Of Pets, Sing is a feel-good fable pitched squarely at a fame-hungry generation that believes the quickest route to success is via the audition room of a TV talent competition.

As cautionary tales go, this fails to hit the high notes, though the gentle laughs and gooeey sentiment come together in sweet harmony.

Koala bear entrepreneur Buster Moon (voiced by Matthew McConaughey) inherited a theatre from his father, but the business is on the verge of going under. In order to woo audiences, Buster organises a singing competition with a $1,000 prize.

Unfortunately, Buster's elderly iguana assistant Ms Crawly (Garth Jennings), accidentally adds two more zeroes to the prize on promotional posters, prompting housewife Rosita (Reese Witherspoon); crooning mouse Mike (Seth MacFarlane); insecure elephant Meena (Tori Kelly) and teenage gorilla Johnny (Taron Egerton) among others to dream of overcoming their weaknesses to triumph on stage.

Protesting is my only Trump card

AM not really one for protesting. I complain and moan quite bitterly after the event, but at the time, I keep my mouth shut, like the good Brit I am.

That is not strictly true. Recently I complained about a poached egg in a restaurant. The waiter actually looked surprised by my actions, almost as surprised as me.

But, in fairness, it was so undercooked it was more an unpleasant hangover cure than a breakfast. It looked as if the chef had broken the egg straight onto the plate without going to the trouble of putting it in some simmering water first.

The point is that even I have my limit, a red border of tolerance beyond which I cannot be pushed meekly. An ineptly poached egg is where I draw the line – that, and Donald Trump as the leader of the free world.

Which is how I found myself, entirely out of character, in the middle of one of the women's rallies around the world protesting the election of Donald Trump as President of the United States of America.

At this juncture, I wish to clarify that I am not a woman, but I know a number of women and wished to support them.

I also know there are some readers who are saying: "Oh, for the love of Pete, get a grip, you bumbling idiot. So a democratic vote didn't go your way. You lost, get over it, you Remoaner."

And I have some sympathy with that point, specifically the bit where they called me a bumbling idiot, which is cruel, but not something I could fight in court.

But arguments are not settled with a vote, not even referendums. For example, we had a referendum in 1975 on whether we should stay in the Common Market. An overwhelming majority said yes. However it did not stop opponents of being in the EEC/EU from banging on about it for 40 years until Easy Life Cameron decided to give us another referendum.

Opposition to a vote does not end after the vote is cast. If we had a vote tomorrow on whether we should all put our hands in the fire – and I would not bet against Team Hands-In-Fire winning these days, especially if they started talking about the "cold-handed metropolitan elite" with their "privileged unscarred fingers" –

I would protest about it.

Moreover, I would protest right up to the point at which I had to put my hands in the fire, and probably after it, although my argument then would be along the lines of "Ooyah! Ooyah! Hot! Hot!"

Which takes me back to the rally. I am not a rally person. If I wanted to stand still in a crowd for an hour while somebody gives instructions over a megaphone, I would go on the London Underground at rush hour.

I am told that by rally standards it was a very well attended event. Obviously it was in no way as well attended as the rally supporting Jeremy Corbyn on the same spot a few months before, but that is because women's rights are not as important.

But it felt good to be there, among people with many of whom I would disagree on several subjects, but on this speaking with one voice. All of us were saying that Donald Trump is a bad choice for President.

He is a climate-change denying, bullying manchild who dismisses inconvenient facts as coming from the "lying media", who talks about grabbing women by their genitalia, who hasn't released his tax returns, who, while not necessarily racist himself, uses racism as a weapon, and who follows Piers Morgan on Twitter. And he has his finger on the nuclear button.

And that was just one chant.

And if I do not protest about this man being the leader of the free world, then I am saying that I am fine with this. And I am not fine with this.

Normally, I would dismiss rallies as useless. I watched hundreds of rallies against Thatcher in the 80s.

But Trump is a man obsessed with numbers and personal popularity. He may well be the only leader in recent history who could be dislodged by rallies.

While I was just one person in a crowd, the fact remains I was in a crowd. And he can ignore one leaf on his driveway, but he can't ignore a tonne of leaves.

Though obviously he can protest about it.

Women everywhere united in anger at the new President

Medieval Cities & River Seine Experience

Sailing from Tilbury on board Magellan, departing 24 October 2017

This autumn cruises heads across the Channel to colourful Dutch capital Amsterdam and medieval gem and 'Diamond Capital' Antwerp, before cruising into the meandering Seine for an overnight call in 'Joan of Arc' city Rouen, before returning downriver to Honfleur, famously pretty Impressionists' retreat. Packed full of interest from beginning to end, and with plenty of time to enjoy the full range of Magellan's on-board amenities, the cruise brings opportunities first to explore Amsterdam's canals and cobblestones before heading on to mercantile Antwerp, with its stunning medieval heart. A gentle journey into Normandy, along the tree-lined upper reaches of France's most famous river, is followed by an overnight stay in Rouen. 216mph/647bhp GT 'is all about performance', says Ford DELIVERING the highest output of any EcoBoost production engine to date, the all-new Ford GT couples its extraordinary power with impressive aerodynamic efficiency and advanced active dynamics to achieve a maximum speed of 216mph – making it the fastest Ford production vehicle on the track ever.

Capable of an exceptional top speed, Ford's all-new supercar is designed and optimised for track performance to honour its racing heritage. In 2016 development testing, with all contenders track-prepped with new fluids, fresh tyres and optimal suspension settings, in identical conditions and with the same driver behind the wheel, Ford GT outperformed both the McLaren 675LT and Ferrari 458 Speciale at Calabogie Motorsports Park in Canada.

SAE rated at 647 horsepower and 550 lb ft of torque in US specification, Ford's new high-output 3.5-litre V6 engine produces the highest horsepower of any EcoBoost production engine ever, making Ford GT the fastest production car ever to wear the Blue Oval badge.

EVOLVING: Skoda's Octavia estate

2017 Octavia takes design language on

THE 2017 Octavia is distinguished by a new front and rear design that incorporates the latest evolution of the brand's celebrated design language. Featuring a distinctive new quad light layout, the revised front end incorporates full LED headlight technology for the first time (standard on SE L, Laurin & Klement, Scout and vRS models), along with the same crystalline detailing that defines the look of the new Kodiaq.

The UK range features six engines, two body styles (Hatch and Estate) and seven familiar trim levels – including Scout and vRS. The range structure remains familiar with S, SE, SE Technology, SE L and Laurin & Klement. Order books for Scout and vRS models will open later.

The new model also introduces a host of new technologies. These include fully updated infotainment systems featuring capacitive all-glass displays measuring up to 9.2 inches.

The top-spec 2.0TDI 150PS 4x4 Laurin & Klement Estate is priced at £30,025.

Six eagerly awaited cars ready to take the roads

AFTER 2016 served up a veritable feast of stellar new cars, from the Ford Focus RS to the staggering Audi R8, 2017 has a tough act to follow.

With a plethora of new metal in the pipeline, though, 2017 seems likely to be every bit as good as the 12 months preceding it.

So to help you along, we've shortlisted six of the cars we expect to be stars of 2017.

Mazda MX-5 RF

The fourth-generation Mazda MX-5 went down a storm when it was released back in 2015, offering sporty driving dynamics and a naturally aspirated haven for automotive purists. New for 2017, the folding hard-top RF version looks set to be just as appealing.

It may well be heavier than its soft-top counterpart, but its look-at-me roof and Ferrari-esque flying buttresses make it a stunning thing to behold. It's bound to turn heads when it arrives in the spring, and it might be a stronger all-rounder than its rag-top sibling.

Honda Civic Type R

Hot on the heels of the new Civic will be the new Type R. If the way the latest version flew out of showrooms is anything to go by, Honda may well be struggling to keep up with demand.

Outlandish wheel arches, an enormous spoiler and a deep diffuser are all almost certain to feature, THERE'S plenty of new metal set to arrive in 2017, so Jack Evans, James Fossdyke and Simon Davis of PA have taken a look at the six models they're most looking forward to...

STYLISH: The Mazda MX-5 RF, left and the Honda Civic Type R, right along with a free-revving 2.0-litre turbocharged engine and some body-hugging bucket seats, all of which should keep the youths of Essex very happy.

Mercedes-Benz E-Class Coupe

Mercedes seems to be on a bit of a roll with its luxury coupes. We've already seen the S-Class and C-Class Coupes triumph as comfortable, good-looking yet fun-to-drive cars, and the E-Class ought to continue on this theme.

The outgoing E-Class Coupe was a smartly designed beast, and the new one is set to be just as pretty. Add into the mix that the new Coupe will benefit from the standard E-Class' interior, and you might just have a package that's tricky to beat. It's one to watch.

Land Rover Discovery 5

It's a big deal when a new Discovery comes along. The previous-generation car came out in 2009, and since then it's gone on to be an immensely popular car for Land Rover.

The new one aims to offer better levels of technology – but it needs to retain that classic Land Rover go-anywhere spirit if it's going to hold on to traditional customers.

The styling definitely takes cues from the popular Discovery Sport, but it needs to be a good car in its own right if it's going to succeed.

Ford Fiesta

As the bestselling car in the UK, a new version of the Ford Fiesta is always going to be an incredibly important car. The new Fiesta will hit our roads in time for the September plate change, and is expected to sell like hot cakes.

Ford has given the latest Fiesta a rather more grown-up appearance – while it is still a handsome car, we can't help but think it's lost some of the funky charm that was so abundant with the outgoing model.

Word on the street is we will also be treated to a new go-faster ST version of the Fiesta at some point. If it's anything like the current one, that is going to be a cracking little car. Watch this space.

Alfa Romeo Stelvio QV

The Stelvio will be Alfa Romeo's first-ever attempt at an SUV, and what better way to barge your way into an incredibly competitive market than with an SUV that is powered by a Ferrari-derived V6?

The flagship Stelvio Quadrifoglio promises to be something of a monster – especially if the numbers are anything to go by: 503bhp, 0-60 in 3.7 seconds and a top speed of 177mph sounds nothing short of electric.

Of course, the Stelvio will also be available in slightly more sober configurations.

A 276bhp, 2.0-litre turbocharged petrol variant is in the works, and a diesel is also highly likely to be on the cards.

ON THEIR WAY: New cars due in 2017 from left are the Mercedes-Benz E-Class Coupe, the Land Rover Discovery 5, the Ford Fiesta and the Alfa Romeo Stelvio QV

Thatcher tested Rover 800 before its launch

NEWLY released documents show that Margaret Thatcher secretly tested the Rover 800 before it was launched in 1986.

The files, which were published by the Margaret Thatcher Foundation, reveal the then-Prime Minister was secretly sent a demonstrator of the flagship saloon to prepare for a photoshoot outside Downing Street.

A note from Mark Addison, Thatcher's private secretary, reminded the Prime Minister that the vehicle would be towed to Chequers, the premier's country retreat, before she spent half an hour familiarising herself with the vehicle.

Less than two weeks later, Thatcher drove the car along Downing Street.

The PM's aides were also keen that Rover should provide a blue car as that matched the colours of the Conservative party.

ACE: The Range Rover Sport SUV Sport SVR reaches Porsche-like speeds

WITH a 550bhp V8 engine under the bonnet the high performance Range Rover Sport SVR is already known for packing a punch.

The £95,900 model is the fastest Land Rover in production and despite weighing some 2.3 tonnes can accelerate 0 to 62mph in a Porsche-like 4.5 seconds.

But to prove a point, Land Rover has just put the SVR to the sprint test off road.

Sitting on standard Michelin 275/45 R21 All Season tyres and with an expert Jaguar Land Rover test driver at the wheel, the car was put through its paces.

The astonishing results showed the SVR was capable of 0 to 62 on gravel in 5.3 seconds, 5.5 seconds over grass and sand, 6.5 seconds on rocks, and even on a snow and ice field in Sweden it managed to complete the run in 11.3 seconds.

Two-star Euro-NCAP award for Mustang

THATCHAM Research, the independent automotive research centre, and voice of Euro-NCAP in the UK, says that the Ford Mustang bucks the positive trend towards safer cars by not offering similar levels of safety in the UK as in the United States, and advises that there are safer choices as a result of the two-star Euro-NCAP rating it received today.

"We have not given a two star Euro-NCAP rating to any of the top 10 car brands since 2008," comments Matthew Avery, director of research at Thatcham Research. "This really bucks the trend. Car buyers are increasingly benefitting from improved safety functionality and features, and this applies equally to cars in the sports roadster category as to family cars. We have concerns about the Ford Mustang's crash protection of adults and children which also makes it unsuitable for having rear passengers. On top of this, it does not have basic life-saving technology like Autonomous Emergency Braking (AEB) that is available even on the Ford Fiesta, and the recently launched Ford Edge.

NOT THE SAFEST CAR OUT THERE: The Ford Mustang in Euro-NCAP test

"What really concerns me," continues Avery, "is that Ford has made a deliberate choice. The car has been designed to score well in less wide-ranging US consumer safety tests and only minor updates have been made to meet required European (pedestrian) safety regulations. This has resulted in poor adult and child protection scores and the high-tech radar collision warning system that is available to US consumers, not being available here in the UK. The two star Euro-NCAP rating is the consequence."

In the frontal offset test, the airbags of both the driver and passenger inflated insufficiently to properly restrain the occupants. In the full-width frontal test, a lack of rear seatbelt pre-tensioners and load-limiters meant that the rear passenger slid under the seatbelt, implying higher risk at abdominal injuries in real life accidents. In the side impact crash, the head of the 10-year dummy contacted the interior trim bottoming out the curtain airbag.

Ford say that a face-lifted Mustang will be available later this year with Pre-Collision Assist and Lane Keep Assist as standard.

Kia Sportage star car so far

WINNER: The Kia Sportage

KIA'S popular Sportage SUV has been declared the 2017 Diesel Car Used Car of the Year and also won the Best Used Crossover accolade.

The third generation Sportage, which was on sale from 2010 to 2016, was a hugely important car for the brand, boosting sales and changing perceptions of customers around the world.

In the UK it sold nearly 91,000 units in total, with its final sales year being its most successful.

Beating more premium rivals, the Sportage was chosen due to its frugal 1.7 turbo diesel engine option, engaging handling and highly competitive residual values.

Other winners in this year's awards are the DS 3 (small car), the Ford Focus (medium car), Mazda6 (large car), Skoda Superb Estate (estate car), Honda CR-V (4x4), SEAT Leon SC FR (performance car), Ford Fiesta 1.0T EcoBoost (eco car).

Iceland & Northern Isles Cruise

Sailing from Tilbury on board Columbus, departing 29 June 2017

This very special midsummer cruise brings the chance not only to visit and circumnavigate the land of fire and ice and its fascinating capital Reykjavik, but also to discover and explore the remote outposts of the Faroes and Shetland. Sailing north, Columbus calls first at Invergordon, where there's the opportunity to join an optional shore excursion to Inverness and famous Loch Ness beyond. A visit to tiny Faroes' capital Tórshavn is followed by a wonderful four-day circumnavigation of Iceland's fascinating, rugged coast, including visits to breath-taking Seydisfjörður's stunning natural harbour, Akureyri, with its botanical garden, and Ísafjörður, gateway to magical West Iceland, from which Norse sailors set out to discover the New World. A full day in delightful Reykjavik completes the Icelandic odyssey, before Columbus heads south once more, calling en route at Shetland's ancient Viking stronghold Lerwick.

Our price includes

- Invergordon offers opportunities to discover some Scottish beauty
- Faroes' capital Tórshavn
- Seydisfjörður's stunning natural harbour
- Journey to Lake Myvatn on an optional excursion from Akureyri
- Discover magical West Iceland on an excursion from Ísafjörður
- Enjoy the delights of Reykjavik
- Explore ancient Lerwick
- Traditional British & International cuisine, stylish entertainment, guest lecturers & on-board leisure facilities

A call is made in southern British outpost Gibraltar, beneath its mighty Rock, before Columbus heads west into the Atlantic, to volcanic Lanzarote, then on to Gran Canaria and Tenerife, contrasting Canary Islands offering some wonderful opportunities to step ashore and explore on some fascinating excursions, or just to laze on a beach. Glorious Madeira is next, with the chance to discover its flower-strewn capital Funchal, with its world-renowned Botanical Gardens and its sub-tropical surroundings, before Columbus turns for home and the cruise is completed with a call in Lisbon, the historic Portuguese 'Gateway to the New World'.

Rovers go through to cup semi-finals

HAVERHILL Rovers booked their place in the semi-finals of the Thurlow Nunn League Cup with a 4-0 win at home to Stanway Rovers on Tuesday night.

In wet and foggy conditions, Rovers took the lead when Owen Longley hit a sweet strike that found its way past goalkeeper Nick Punter.

It remained 1-0 at half time but it took just four minutes of the second half for Rovers to extend their lead further with Rory Jebb heading home when he guided a free kick into the far bottom right corner.

The third goal came in the 73rd minute and killed the tie off.

Substitute Mason Newman led a counter-attack and cut the ball back for Ryan Weaver. His shot was blocked but after Newman had his follow up saved, Bradley ran in to blast the ball into the top corner.

The scoring was completed eight minutes from time when Newman crossed for fellow substitute Justin Leavers whose neat finish secured his first goal for the club.

On Saturday, Rovers put a run of disappointing results behind them with a 3-0 win over Ipswich Wanderers in the Premier Division.

Jebb opened the scoring after eight minutes, and the lead was doubled just after the half hour when Luke Haines curled home a free kick.

Ipswich had a player sent off in the 75th minute for denying a goalscoring opportunity, and Marc Abbott scored the resulting free kick to make it 3-0.

In the First Division, Haverhill Borough beat Cornard United 3-2 after a scrappy encounter.

Jarid Robson fired the visitors in front in the 23rd minute, and after Charlie Holmes had spurned an opportunity to make it 2-0, the hosts equalised just before the interval.

Cornard went in front midway through the second half but just three minutes later Casey Phillips headed home Ryan Swallow's corner.

Craig Pruden forced a good save from the Cornard keeper in the 74th minute but then with seven minutes remaining, Ryan Bone ran on to a ball over the top and lobbed the keeper to score the winner.

Sims enjoys Daytona debut

ALEXANDER Sims produced an impressive drive behind the wheel of his BMW M6 GTLM Art car to finish eighth in class on his Rolex 24 debut at Daytona.

The West Wratting driver finished 12th overall out of 55 cars, sharing his BMW Team RLL car with Bill Auberlen, Augusto Farfus and Bruno Spengler.

Difficult weather conditions made racing particularly challenging, with 21 full-course yellows taking place to calm the field after incidents and torrential rain.

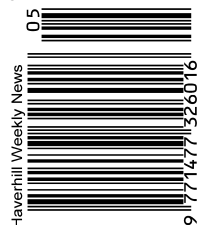

Sims, 28, was taking part in his first race on American soil but impressed during his stints, spending a total of seven hours and two minutes behind the wheel during the 24-hour race.

The BMW struggled against the pace of its class challengers but the team's fighting spirit and consistency ensured they got to the end in 12th overall.

The event, which forms the first race of the IMSA WeatherTech Sportscar Championship, has certainly made Sims eager for more and heightened anticipation for round two at Sebring.

He said: "I absolutely loved racing at Daytona for the first time, but it was a difficult race.

"This is all quite new to me and is a massive learning curve but I'm really looking forward to the rest of the IMSA season and can't wait to get back out on track."
